Are you in search of a place to live with support services for employment and housing?

Link is a clean and sober residential program of Seattle’s Union Gospel Mission for men:

- seeking employment or job training
- currently employed or enrolled in job training
- preparing to move into permanent housing

Link provides Christian discipleship, case management, life skills classes, and occupational work therapy to help men succeed in their employment while saving funds for stable housing. We’ll work with you to fulfill personal goals to overcome homelessness and take steps towards a new life.
Our Link program includes

- Clean and friendly environment: shelter, food, and all basic necessities
- Hands-on and experiential Work Therapy program crafted to the professional goals of each resident
- Church attendance, Bible study, devotions, and counseling
- Weekly life skills classes, one-on-one mentoring, and personal development classes
- Training on finance, employability, networking and resume building
- One-on-one case management

What should I expect?
While you pursue employment, housing, and establish financial savings, you will receive life-changing classes, counseling, legal advice, dental services, processing groups, and more! You will learn transformative life skills, Bible basics, and receive counseling and case management.

Is employment a requirement to join?
This program is a good fit for men who are employed, or seeking employment. It’s a work readiness program that will help you to attain your goals to get out of homelessness. If you are not employed, you can still join the program if your goal is to get employment and housing. We will help you attain your goals by working with you one-on-one.

Request an intake interview with us!
We’re available Monday through Friday, 8am - 3pm. Call ahead to reserve a time, or come to the Men’s Shelter and ask for an intake interview. After successfully completing the intake process, a case manager will confirm availability and invite you to join the Link program!
